

School of Education & Human Development

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO DENVER

MA Special Education

This degree plan does not include a license or an endorsement.

Students are responsible for reviewing the Special Education Resources website regularly, including the SPED Handbook and SPED course rotation:

<https://education.ucdenver.edu/academic-services/student-resources/graduate/special-education>

SPED courses may be offered in online, hybrid, remote, or face-to-face formats. SPED course formats can vary by semester and some courses are offered only once per year. The MA Special Education does not require a comprehensive exam or thesis.

In consultation with the approval from your Faculty Advisor, select 3 courses (9 semester hours) of graduate-level SPED coursework and 5 courses (15 semester hours) from the Thematic Course Categories (or any graduate-level School of Education & Human Development coursework 5000-level or higher with Faculty Advisor approval). Finally, take a research RSEM course (3 hours) and complete SPED 5401 Advanced Seminar in Special Education which fulfills the capstone requirement (3 hours.)

Note: It is advisable to reach out to your Faculty Advisor at the beginning of your program (to answer initial questions) and to check in with them at the middle/end of your program (to confirm your progress).
